John Panzella, a Hudson Valley resident, is one of the nation's most experienced credit experts helping educate high school and college students, consumers, realtors, first-time homebuyers and businesses about all aspects of consumer credit, credit reports, and the credit industry. He is a strong believer in empowering consumers and helping them keep more of their money by paying less for cars and homes, and many other things, which is exactly what a good credit report will help you do.

With over 25 years of experience, John is a knowledgeable, respected, and well-known multi-certified credit expert. He conducts credit education workshops all over the country and he is the author of the book Give Yourself Some Credit! A Graduate's Guide to Understanding and Establishing Good Credit.
