United Way of the Dutchess-Orange Region, in partnership with Dutchess Community College, offers “Nonprofit Leaders United for Impact,” a free training for nonprofit professionals. Three workshops will explore Diversity & Inclusion; Social Determinants of Health; and Volunteer Management.

Inaudy Esposito will discuss “Diversity and Inclusion: Beyond the Buzzwords.”

Inaudy is the executive director of the Orange County Human Rights Commission as well as an avid advocate and voice for targeted and oppressed communities.

Christie VanHorne will discuss the “Social Determinants of Health.”

Christie is the CEO and Founder of CVH Consulting. She addresses health inequities and has become an accomplished and highly respected public health and nonprofit consultant.

Keith Timko will discuss “Being the Best Volunteer Manager You Can Be & Discovering the Right Volunteer Talent to Help You!”

Keith is the Executive Director at the Support Center and oversees and supports all change consulting projects. He brings nearly 20 years of experience in community development.

This program is presented thanks to the support of the New York State Volunteer Generation Fund.
